Clark County School District offers summer learning fun K-12 activities provide for family learning interaction

LAS VEGAS – The Clark County School District encourages parents and guardians of children who are enrolled in the CCSD to take time for the Fun Summer Learning Activities publication. Grades K-8 will receive mailers that include grade-appropriate activities for parents and guardians to share with their children, while having fun all summer long. Families with children in grades K-8 will receive a mailer for each child based on his or her most recent grade level to help reinforce the skills that contribute to educational success. High school students will also be able to keep academically active with an online Fun Summer Learning Activities guide.

The Fun Summer Learning Activities offer K-12 families recommendations for reading, mathematics, online resources and tips for students and parents that make summertime learning fun for the entire family.

“While public schools are entrusted with educating children, the reality is that education is a job much larger than schools can handle alone. Parental involvement is the key to a child's success in school. Children and schools depend upon parents to open educational doors that support opportunities for growth,” Superintendent Walt Rulffes stated.

The CCSD recognizes the important role family plays in providing support and encouragement in their children's academics. The Fun Summer Learning Activities will help children to be better prepared for the upcoming 2009-2010 school year.

The Summer Fun Learning Activities guides for all grade levels can be found online, in both English and Spanish, at <http://ccsd.net/learn>.
