Variety of timely topics to be covered in the next School Matters Program to air live on Vegas PBS on October 22

LAS VEGAS – Teacher hiring, parent participation in education and the decline in student enrollment are among the topics to be addressed in the next School Matters program, to air Thursday, October 22, at 8 p.m. on Vegas PBS, channel 10. The program also will examine the challenges faced by homeless students.

School Matters is a live program that represents the Board of School Trustees' ongoing commitment to share important information about education and other school-related topics with members of the community. The show provides an opportunity for residents to submit their questions online or by phone and receive answers from members of the school board and other CCSD officials.

Participants on the upcoming program include Board of School Trustees Carolyn Edwards and Deanna Wright. Also joining the panel will be Lauren Kohut-Rost, Deputy Superintendent of Instruction. The program will be hosted by Tiffani Sargent from KTNV Channel 13.

Viewers are encouraged to submit their questions in advance at www.ccsd.net or during the program at 799-5111.
